

A 20x20 grid heatmap where each square cell is colored in a shade of red or orange. The colors vary in intensity, with darker red indicating higher values and lighter orange indicating lower values. The pattern is non-uniform, showing a central area of higher intensity (darker red) that tapers off towards the edges, with some localized variations in color throughout the grid.

